SIMON'S STILL GOING STRONG

Borough's oldest resident marks his 103rd birthday with family

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

FOR somebody born in the same year as the Titanic was sunk, Simon Medwed is looking remarkably good for his 103 years.

Believed to be Haringey's oldest resident, he celebrated his birthday in traditional style last Friday as carers at the old people's home where he lives threw a party.

And among the surprise guests wishing him a happy birthday was his daughter, who flew over from America, where she lives.

Simon, who was still living independently in his own home in Hill-side Road, South Tottenham, before becoming a resident of Peregrine House Care Home, in Hermitage Road at the age of 101, took it all in his stride.

"Amazingly at 99 years old he was still travelling on his own up to the West End to Marks & Spencer's Marble Arch store to buy presents for my once-a-year visit to see him," said his daughter Lorella Brocklesby, a professor of English history and design in New York.

Born in West Ham in the same year as the sinking of the Titanic and Scott's expedition to the South Pole, Simon has memories as an infant sheltering from the bombs falling in World War I.

And a few decades later, as a voluntary firefighter, he was dealing with the devastation wreaked in the World War II by the Blitz, for which he gained an award for valour.

He worked as a cabinet maker and furniture designer for most of his career, but had also been a physical therapist. His wife, Milly, died in the 1970s.

"His secret for a long life is that he doesn't worry about anything - he never has," added Lorella.

"He just has this positive outlook and is such a happy person. A stress-free life, plus the grapefruit he has every day, seems to be the key to a long life."

Small is beautiful as exhibits head for Ally Pally...

A MINIATURE world created by model makers is once again set to amaze when Alexandra Palace stages the London Model Engineering Exhibition.

A vast array of scaled-down replicas from enormous train sets to model ships, planes and cars will be displayed at the event being held in the Great Hall from Friday, January 16, to Sunday, January 18.

More than 50 national and regional modelling clubs and societies will be showcasing their members' handiwork.

Other attractions include an extraordinary matchstick display of historical ships, such as HMS Victory, plus a narrow gauge steam train running on portable tracks providing free rides for visitors to the show.

"This is one of the UK's largest modelling exhibitions and one of the best," said a spokeswoman.

Murder charge after stabbing

A TEENAGER has been accused of the murder of an 18-year-old in Wood Green on Friday.

Jaydee Dorsett, 19, of Maryland Road, Wood Green, was charged yesterday with the murder of Isaiah Ekpaloba.

A post-mortem examination at Haringey Mortuary gave the cause of death as shock and haemorrhage and a stab wound to the chest.

Mr Dorsett is due to appear at Barkingside Magistrates' Court today.

Protesters lock council out of centre - despite court order

A GROUP behind a protest which has left the council locked out of a community centre is to hold its own consultation meeting to talk about the future of the premises.

The management of Chesnuts Community Centre, in St Ann's Road, refused to hand back the keys and return the centre to council control at the end of December, despite being ordered to by a judge. It followed the termination of the current committee's lease

A campaign group of centre users, Chesnuts People, opposes plans by the council to contract out the running of the centre to a charity and want it to remain under community control.

The council, which wants to improve its facilities and create a modern arts and culture hub, says it was left with no other option but to terminate the management committee's lease after rent arrears of £50,000 and a repair bill due to poor maintenance of £80,000, as well as persistent noise complaints.

A spokeswoman for Chesnuts People said the centre was a valuable community asset and welcomed "constructive discussions" with the council which would secure a future for the centre that was "community-led and inclusive".

She added: "Come along to the consultation event on Tuesday, January 20, at 6.30pm and share your ideas about what you would like to see at Chesnuts Centre and how it should be run."

A Haringey Council spokesman said it was considering its next steps in light of the committee's refusal to comply with the court instruction.

"It would not be fair to the vast majority of the groups who use the centre and those who responsibly manage other community buildings in our borough to ignore these issues," he said. "We will continue to consult with centre users and the wider community about what improvements they would like to see, and work to minimise disruption to the groups whose clubs, activities and meetings are central to our ambitions."

Questions raised over Chase Farm land sale

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN environmental campaigner has voiced fears over the future of a planned redevelopment of Enfield's crumbling Chase Farm Hospital.

David Flint, the prospective parliamentary candidate for the Green Party for Enfield North, has called for greater transparency over the way in which the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust intends to dispose of land on the 32,000-acre site to developers.

The Chase Farm site, in The Ridgeway, is under the control of the Royal Free trust after it took over the failing Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust last year.

The Royal Free is planning an extensive redevelopment of Chase Farm and is hoping to bring all the hospital's services under one roof in a 25,000 square foot building, with up to 500 houses and a three-form entry primary school also on the site.

At a meeting between representatives of the Royal Free, councillors, council officers, residents and interested parties at Highlands School, in Worlds End Lane, Winchmore Hill, last week, Mr Flint asked Andrew Panniker, director of capital and estates, how much the trust was expecting to make from selling off the land that will no longer be needed for hospital space.

Mr Panniker explained that the trust

could not divulge that information as it might harm how much it might make from private developers trying to outbid one another.

He added that the trust would publish a financial viability study – but in a redacted form so that potential bidders were not given an imagined upper limit on their bid.

However, speaking after the meeting on Wednesday, Mr Flint admitted that he was not satisfied with the responses from the panel.

"It is a step forward that we have this redacted financial viability assessment because we know the money has got to come from somewhere and ultimately taxpayers will foot the bill," he said.

"And that's not necessarily a bad thing – but it does mean we have to know whether the money is being spent efficiently and I think the finances should be open to scrutiny and a degree of discussion."

Some of the residents who attended last week's meeting voiced concerns over the dangers that would be inherent in the inevitable increase in the volume of traffic that the development would bring to an already busy road.

Kieran McGregor and Kate Wilkinson, of the Save Chase Farm campaign, were also among those at the meeting.

Speaking afterwards, Mr McGregor said: "It is disappointing that there is nothing in their plans that would allow for a re-examination of any future accident and emergency provision on the site."

"We are not looking for them to go back and re-visit the strategy that led to the current model, but I would have thought with the potential of a new government in a few months, then maybe A&E provision nationally could be expanded again in the future."

£195,000 boost for council to root out fraud

AN additional £195,000 of government money to tackle fraud in the borough has been awarded to Enfield Council.

The cash followed a successful bid for funding to the Department for Communities and Local Government.

The handout came after the council demonstrated measures on how to improve prevention of fraud and increased recovery of items stolen through fraud, as well as innovative ideas to generate the most effective savings.

Payable over the remainder of 2014/2015 and in 2015/2016, the money will fund a project that will focus on building fraud prevention measures.

Enfield will closely with other local authorities and the private sector to seek out any fraudulent activity within services internally.

The aim is to stop fraud from entering the council's systems and reduce the need for costly detection measures, reactive recovery and investigations.

Andrew Stafford, cabinet member for finance, said: "I am pleased the council has won £195,000 to help fight fraud locally. Enfield was successful in its bid due to our track record in pursuing fraudsters for every penny they have stolen and for our exemplary joint working with other councils and private companies to seek out fraudsters."

‘Verdict brings us a step closer to truth’

Hannah’s parents welcome findings of inquest

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE parents of Hannah Defoe have begun to see a glimmer of hope after battling for more than two years to expose the truth behind their daughter’s tragic death in the West Indies.

Hannah Defoe was just 20 years old when she was electrocuted and died while swimming in the pool attached to luxury hotel complex Vieux Fort on the Caribbean island of St Lucia on July 25, 2012.

Ever since the tragedy, her family has battled bureaucracy in both St Lucia and England to try and find out exactly why and how the water their daughter was quite happily swimming in one minute suddenly became charged with enough volts of electricity to transform it into a death trap which delivered electric shocks to would-be rescuers who tried to save the aspiring dancer.

Despite repeated adjournments of a British inquest

Tragic victim: Hannah Defoe

and a St Lucian inquest that lasted nearly a year, the family and their solicitor Janice Brennan maintained constant pressure on the authorities, culminating two weeks ago in the delivery of a verdict of manslaughter from the inquest in Vieux Fort.

“At first I didn’t know what to feel,” Hannah’s mother Hope admitted about the moment when she and her husband Matthew finally heard the news that they were one step closer to finding out the truth behind what happened that night.

“Lots of my family were really excited by the news because it seemed for some time that the inquest was just going through the motions,” she told the Advertiser.

“And I did start to realise that this could open the door to finally holding someone accountable for what happened but then, of course, she is still dead and when that thought strikes you, you wonder, ‘what is this all about.’”

Matthew and Hope said that with the verdict of manslaughter, the door could be opened for criminal prosecutions against whoever is found to be responsible for the pool becoming charged with electricity.

But the thing that has kept them going throughout the process is the thought of protecting other families from the heartache they have suffered.

“We want the government to feel under pressure to put its books in order,” Hope explained.

“We believe that in the course of the inquest the ministry of infrastructure were apportioned some responsibility because of the lack of robust certifications and re-inspection procedures.”

The couple want the verdict to pave the way for an island-wide crackdown on any possible faulty electrics in public places.

“We want other people, other owners of hotels to want to check their businesses and unless that process is made public then the people of St Lucia will be kept in the dark,” added Hope.

The family are waiting to see the full inquest break-down before deciding what course of action to take next.

Still in the dark: Hope and Matthew Defoe

On picket duty: Drivers at Southbury Road bus garage in Ponders End

Bus drivers strike in dispute over pay

BUS drivers were out on the picket lines at the Arriva depot in Enfield yesterday as commuters took to their cars during the morning rush hour.

The Unite union members joined the 24-hour strike calling for pay parity across the capital's 18 bus companies – and the majority of bus routes in Enfield were affected by the drivers' walkout.

Transport for London said that 30 per cent of buses were running during the morning rush hour and there was “significant disruption to bus services”. One of the services that was running was the 628 between Southgate and Kingsbury, in north-west London.

The union said that starting salaries for new drivers could vary by £3 an hour, with rates between £9.30 and £12.34 on offer. It said disparity in pay meant there were 80 different hourly rates for drivers in London.

Wayne King, the union's London regional officer, claimed that bus operators were refusing to tackle pay inequality on the capital's buses.

He said: “Bus drivers doing the same job on the same route are being pitted against one another on different rates of pay.”

The union said the strike was the last resort and wanted bus operators to meet them and discuss a fresh pay deal.

Mr King added: “Passengers sitting side by side on the same route expect to pay the same fare, so why shouldn't drivers expect to be paid the same rate?”

“The bus operators need to stop pleading poverty in defending pay inequality and collectively start negotiating about a fairer deal for London's bus workers.”

Barclays defends decision to pull plug after drop in business

HIGH street bank Barclays is pulling out of North Enfield.

The bank has written to its business and domestic customers to tell them that it will close its Lancaster Road branch on March 20.

The bank said that customers could use other branches – in Enfield Town, High Street, Ponders End, and Hertford Road, Enfield Highway. A spokeswoman said that the Lancaster Road branch did not have a “heavy” use by business customers.

Overall it has seen a 38 per cent decline in custom and three quarters of its customers already use nearby branches.

The cash point machine will be removed as Barclays leases the building. However, one of the Lancaster Road customers, Martyn Sears, said the closure would be inconvenient and force him to fork out a £3 parking fee if he has to travel to the Enfield Town branch. He said the Lancaster Road branch was busy when he visits.

He said he was a loyal customer and has banked with the high street giant for more than 30 years. “I don’t want to troop to Enfield Town just to draw money out,” he added.

“They want to get rid of counter staff and automate everything. They say do online banking. I want to speak to somebody. People want personal banking, not automated banking.”

A Barclays spokeswoman said: “We hope the range of alternatives, including digital banking, nearby branches and post office access, will help to ease the transition for our customers in North Enfield and if any customers have any concerns we would recommend they speak to a member of staff.”

Unhappy: Barclays customer Martyn Sears

Standing down: MP Andy Love

‘The time is right for me to step down,’ says Labour MP

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ONE of the borough’s three MPs has announced that he will not be standing for re-election in the general election in May.

Edmonton MP Andy Mr Love says the decision not to run again “was the hardest I have ever had to make”.

He added: “I believe – given that I’ll be in my 70s when the next parliament ends in 2020 – that now is the right time for me to let someone else take on the job of representing Edmonton.

“It has been an honour and a privilege to represent the area for so long and the friendship, support and solidarity that so many people have shown me over the years has been particularly appreciated.

“Edmonton hasn’t seen the back of me though. I hope to continue to have some role in improving the lives of the people of Edmonton.”

Labour Party leader Ed Miliband paid tribute to the stalwart, saying that Mr Love had “always put the people of Edmonton first”.

He added: “His diligence and hard work will be a big loss to us in parliament, especially his important work on the Treasury select committee.

“On behalf of the Labour Party I would like to thank him for his lifetime of service and I wish him and his family all the best for the future.”

Ibrahim Dogus, a Labour Party activist and fundraiser, has announced on his website that he will be putting his hat into the ring for the candidacy.

He said: “I got involved in our Labour Party when I was 19 and in the 14 years that followed I have campaigned throughout London for us in every election and throughout the year. I believe I have the ideas, the plans and the experience to win Edmonton for Labour.”

Mr Dogus, the fundraising officer for the Enfield Southgate Constituency Labour Party, was at the centre of a donation controversy in November 2013 after it emerged an organisation he heads up, the Centre for Turkey Studies, gave money to the campaign of Conservative MP for Enfield North, Nick de Bois.

Also aiming to bag the Edmonton candidacy is Haringey councillor Joseph Ejifor.

The former London Underground worker believes that people in Edmonton need better primary care provision in their area – particularly in terms of mental health care.

He told the Advertiser: “Health provision is the main issue people on the doorsteps are concerned about. And I think that access to good jobs and good housing is important also.”

The former Haringey cabinet member for planning enforcement said that he had a particularly good understanding of the issues facing Edmonton residents as the Bruce Grove ward he represents is just a mile from the constituency boundary.”

At this stage it is not known if anyone else has expressed interest in seat, which Mr Love won in 2010 with a majority of 9,613 votes.

Mr Love has held the seat since the 1997 Labour election victory.

The prospective parliamentary candidate for the Conservatives is schools campaigner Gonul Daniels and Douglas Coker is standing for the Green Party.

Two men jailed for pool hall shooting

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Edmonton man has been jailed for 15 years for his part in a pool hall shooting in May last year.

Sedat Meric, 25, of Deansway, was sentenced at the Old Bailey on Friday to spend 15 years behind bars after being found guilty of possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life at the same court last month.

His accomplice, 22-year-old Oktay Ayanoglu, had been convicted of the same offence and was sentenced to 12 years in prison.

Armed police carrying out surveillance in West Green Road, Tottenham, just before 11pm on May 23, having received reports of a threat to a person's life, were unable to locate the intended victim in order to warn him.

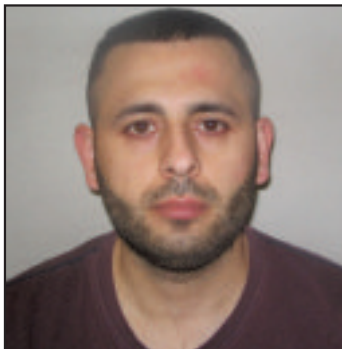

Instead officers attended the scene outside the West Green pool bar to look for possible suspects. There they witnessed Meric approach the bar in the company of Ayanoglu and fire three shots into the venue.

When officers approached Meric and identified themselves, his reaction was to turn and fire in their direction before running off and shooting eight times at the pursuing officer, who returned fire.

When he had run out of ammunition, Meric discarded his gun on the pavement and gave himself up. Ayanoglu was arrested running from the scene moments later. No one was injured in the incident.

Detective Inspector Shaun Fitzgerald, from the Trident Gang Command, said: "Meric went out that evening intent on causing fear and intimidation and with no regard for who may have got caught up in the crossfire.

"Shooting at officers of the law highlights his complete disregard. It is sheer luck that no one was injured as a result of this incident and it highlights the inherent dangers present when carrying a gun."

A ROW has erupted over plans to overhaul some main shopping centres in the borough.

Last week at a stakeholders’ meeting of the Cycle Enfield partnership board, councillors were aghast that residents were not being consulted over early proposals on ways in which £30million to revolutionise cycling in the borough should be spent.

Since it emerged that Enfield had been successful in its bid for the money, residents and shopkeepers have been on edge that plans to create safe space for cycling could push the interests of business and residents to the side.

Joanne Laban, deputy leader of Enfield Council’s Conservative group and a councillor for Town ward, has hit out, saying that residents are not being more involved in the early drafting of the provisional plans.

Although she was invited to the stakeholders’ meeting, she is outraged that her constituents were not.

“The fact that Chris Bond [cabinet member for the environment] specifically decided that neither the Federation of Enfield Residents and Allied Associations who represent residents’ groups nor specific residents’ groups in the area should not be involved in the meeting means that the process has got off to a bad start. This can be remedied, but Mr Bond needs to demonstrate that he is really interested in what the public have to say.”

Early stage proposals include options such as creating two-way traffic in Cecil Road, Enfield Town, as well as the possibility of allowing eastbound traffic in Church Street as long as vehicles turn left on to Silver Street and one option involving a shared-space scheme which would introduce two-way traffic in Cecil Road and two-way cycle traffic in Church Street. All were shown to “stakeholders” at the meeting, including cycling groups, councillors and history societies.

However, the leader of the Palmers Green Business Association, Costas Georgiou, is furious that business leaders have been excluded from even the very early stage discussions.

He told the Advertiser: “We in Palmers Green are concerned that the council still seems keen on the idea of segregated cycle lanes that would completely remove any possibility of parking in Green Lanes.

“I have heard that they want the type of lane called Armadillos – which are made of rubber and separate traffic from bikes.

“But these things will mean no one can park and come in to shop – it also just is not possible as Green Lanes simply is not

Conflicting opinions: The proposals will aim to make cyclists safer – but some businesses believe their interests are being brushed aside wide enough.” But Mr Bond, has told the Advertiser that every residents’ group was invited to last week’s meeting as well as business representatives.

“Councillors are also invited to these meetings and councillors are supposed to be the representatives of the residents,” said Mr Bond. “They are the people’s voice elected by the people for the people.”

He also explained that the council is trying to do “something different” with the way it is drawing up proposals.

“We are trying to get this right,” he added. “We are trying to have a conversation with people about what we want to do – we are trying to do the best we can to make sure we have spoken and listened to as many people as possible.”

Plans will be go out for public consultation in February.

Man injured after midday accident

TRAFFIC ground to a standstill in Enfield on Wednesday last week after a section of The Ridgeway was closed following a collision.

The road – one of the main east-west traffic arteries in the borough – was closed for most of the afternoon between Slades Hill and Hadley Road after the collision between a car and a cyclist at about 1pm.

The cyclist, a man in his 60s, suffered a cardiac arrest at the scene as well as sustaining injuries to his head and body and was taken by air ambulance to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London.

The driver of the car stopped at the scene and no arrests were made. Police are continuing to investigate.

Scene of the investigation:
Cuckoo Hall Primary Academy

Director back on board as academy probe carries on

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ONE of the people under investigation by the government over allegations of “gross misconduct” at a primary school has been reinstated to the body that governs the school.

Phil Sowter was suspended from his position as one of the directors of the board of trustees of Cuckoo Hall Academy Trust at the end of November.

Since then the Department for Education has been investigating a series of “gross misconduct” allegations relating to Mr Sowter, his wife Patricia, who is the executive headteacher of Cuckoo Hall Primary Academy, in Cuckoo Hall Lane, Edmonton, and Sharon Ahmet, the headteacher of Cuckoo Hall.

However, it has emerged that Mr Sowter was elected back on to the board of trustees last week.

A spokesman from the Cuckoo Hall Academy Trust said: “The interim chair of the CHAT board, Marino Charalambous, can confirm that Phil Sowter has been voted back and reinstated to the board at the CHAT board meeting.”

The spokesman goes on to say that the Department for Education report has not yet been published.

He added: “The CHAT board will, of course, be making a press statement at the end of the investigations, which are all still in progress.”

Mr Sowter’s return to the board comes a week after the Advertiser reported that Andry Efthymiou had stepped down from her position as chairwoman of the board for the duration of the investigations as she had been advised there was a possible conflict of interest as disciplinary action taken against her ex-husband formed part of the investigation into the allegations of gross misconduct.

Although a spokesman for the Department for Education said that all matters to do with staffing were strictly a matter for the board of trustees and that the department had no control over the board, he added that as far as it was concerned the department was “still very much investigating” the allegations against all three individuals.

The statement issued by the department said: “Academies and free schools operate under a strict system of oversight and accountability and we have consistently demonstrated that where we find failure, we will act quickly and decisively.”

Free schools differ from local authority schools as they are outside of council control and are, in theory, answerable to the Secretary of State for Education.

The Department for Education would not provide an indication of when the investigation is expected to conclude.

Nick Efthymiou

FOLLOWING last week’s front-page story, “Confusion at Cuckoo Hall,” Nick Efthymiou has asked us to clarify that he is the ex-husband of Andry Efthymiou, chairwoman of the Cuckoo Hall Academy Trust, who has voluntarily stepped down while an investigation is conducted into allegations of gross misconduct against her and two other senior board members. In the story we referred to him as her husband.

He was also incorrectly referred to as the former site manager of the Cuckoo Hall Primary Academy. He wishes to make it clear he is still the site manager.

Chickenshed Theatre

HAPPY New Year – 2015 has certainly started with a bang here at Chickenshed!

Peter Pan has come to an end after 59 wonderful performances, with some amazing reviews and packed audiences across the run.

We held a special celebration event on Sunday, January 4, and were delighted to welcome stars from stage and screen who sat among our audience – and who clapped frantically when they were asked if they believed in fairies!

As we launch our spring season, we have performances and events to entertain all ages.

Our interactive children's shows, Tales From The Shed, aimed at our youngest audiences, begin again on January 23. For older children, aged five and up, we have our Saturday Shed workshops, which begin on January 24.

Every workshop is different and designed so that a child of any ability can develop performance skills. We even have an adult choir that meets on Wednesday evenings.

Emerging Writers' Week returns in February. An array of new work will be showcased in our studio, with "offstage" fringe events both before and after the performances, and which will include readings of new plays, extracts of work in progress, sketches, poetry and more.

We will also have a Play in a Day workshop on Saturday, February 21, where participants will create a brand new piece which will be devised, written, rehearsed and then performed in the evening at the final show.

But it's not all about shows. If you haven't been to Chickenshed before, why not pop in and enjoy a coffee, snack or delicious, Mediterranean-style meal in our comfortable Brothers' Grill café – all with free WiFi. We're your theatre and we would love to see you.

It's time to take responsibility for the A10

IN response to the letter from Councillor Vicki Pite (January 7), I agree with her, – policing the A10 is the responsibility of the mayor and TfL.

That is why I have been in touch with his office and Enfield North MP Nick de Bois has met him to secure extra resources in tackling the speeders.

Perhaps her research uncovered how many times Councillor Chris Bond or our London Assembly member Joanne McCartney had done that over the past four years? I think we know the answer to that.

I notice Ms Pite says nothing in her letter about Ed Balls saying if there is a Labour government the Home Office budget will be cut every year, meaning fewer police officers for Enfield. Wonder why that was?

I have learned since becoming a councillor that the current administration doesn't like to take responsibility and resorts to political point scoring.

It also seems to think the issue of speeding on the A10 is a bit too much bother for them to try and find a solution for.

I make no apologies for continuing to raise the issue and trying to secure more resources for Enfield.

Cycle First will save lives in the long run

WHAT is David Burrowes MP up to?

His recent newsletter claims: "Road safety has been a massive concern of mine. Following the tragic death of a child on our streets as a result of a dangerous driver, I led a successful campaign to increase the sentence for killing someone through dangerous driving."

Fine, but he must know the benefits in terms of lives/injuries saved will be marginal and that, by contrast, Enfield Council's "Mini-Holland" Cycle First campaign – which he very publicly opposes – has real potential to save many lives currently lost to poor air quality (4,500 die annually in London from poor air quality and tens of thousands suffer serious illness).

What's more, cycling improves fitness and helps reduce the weight gain which has brought the UK to worldwide leadership in obesity and diabetes.

Health isn't the only problem with London's traffic. The population is increasing, and cars with it.

Unless people walk/cycle for shorter journeys or use public transport more often, gridlock is inevitable.

This must be tackled, so Mr Burrowes makes an incomprehensible decision – unless you think he's vote-seeking – to agree with the Green Lanes shopkeepers' argument that car parking adjacent to shops is key to retail survival.

Not in Britain's very successful pedestrianised streets it isn't, not according to case studies. Even national car park providers can't prove it. In fact, case studies worldwide show that what most enables retail success is a pleasant public realm.

And here we face the apparent inability of local shopkeepers/our MP to think strategically. In these days of internet shopping, high streets need to concentrate on what the internet can't provide – an attractive, welcoming, traffic-calmed ambience; shops tailored to customers; service; perishable food; trying clothes before purchase; time-critical purchases, etc.

Some butchers and fishmongers survive in Green Lanes, convenience stores are taking trade from big-shed stores. All is not lost.

Stop Pickles' prayer plans

IN 2010, Enfield mayor Jayne Buckland bravely opened council meetings with a poem reading instead of prayers. In 2012, the High Court ruled that it was unlawful to make prayers a formal part of council proceedings.

Now the Communities Secretary Eric Pickles, is supporting attempts to enable councils to force the religious practices of one religion on to all council members by making prayers a formal part of council meetings.

As a liberal in both outlook and politics, I support the right of an individual to follow their own faith, or none, without hindrance. But this right does not mean that religious group should be able to force their religion on to other individuals and this includes forcing religion into the governance of Enfield.

I encourage Enfield residents to support religious freedom by contacting their MP immediately and asking them to vote against the Local Government (Religious etc. Observances) Bill 2014-15 when it comes before Parliament.

Railways must belong to us

JOAN Ryan is right about this year's rail fare rise, as reported in last week's paper. There should indeed be a "better deal for passengers".

Since rail privatisation in 1995, fares have gone up more than 150 per cent in real terms – and this rise happened throughout the whole of the 20-year period, for 13 of which Labour was the governing party and for part of which Ms Ryan was a government minister.

The only way to give users a fair deal is to bring the railways back into public ownership, a proposal which I should like to see Ms Ryan and all the Labour candidates endorse!

Take a weight off your mind with the help of new council website

A WEBSITE has been launched to encourage people to lose weight and introduce simple lifestyle changes.

Enfield Council's new site – www.enfield.gov.uk/meds – is aimed at challenging residents to “make one change” to lose extra weight and tackle the borough's obesity problem.

According to the council, 95 per cent of the borough's residents fail to take enough physical activity to benefit their health and 64 per cent of adults are overweight or obese.

Nearly 40 per cent of Enfield's 11-year-olds are also overweight or obese.

Rohini Simbodyal, cabinet member for culture, sport, youth and public health, said that simple changes could help.

“Use the stairs, walk or cycle to work, cut down on fat, prepare and cook meals from scratch and drink less alcohol – these are just a few actions that individuals can do to improve their health,” she said.

During the six-week campaign, which started on Monday, people will be encouraged to take part in games in parks and take other steps to improve their health, such as joining a walking group or setting up a gardening club to grow their own fruit and vegetables, while getting exercise.

Enfield GP Dr Mo Abedi who is the new chairman of Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, said: “It is a well-established medical fact that excess weight is linked to increased illness and quality of life.”

He is concerned that only ten per cent of obese adults accept that they have a serious weight problem. “Obesity is linked to heart disease, diabetes, hypertension, cancer and some arthritic condition,” he added. “It is a significant cost to the local NHS.”

Body of missing man, 22, found in reservoir

Missing since November:
Joshua Knox-Hooke

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THE body of a young man who had been missing for a month has been discovered in a reservoir.

Joshua Knox-Hooke was found at Banbury Reservoir, in Harbet Road, Walthamstow, on December 28.

A post-mortem examination held at Queens Road Mortuary three days later found that the 22-year-old, of Rendlesham Road, Enfield, had drowned.

The former Enfield Grammar School pupil was reported missing to police on November 30 last year, a few days after his last posts had appeared on the social media site Twitter. An appeal was put out by the Missing People website, with the search spreading via Twitter.

Mr Knox-Hooke took his A-levels at Barnet and Southgate College before graduating from Brighton University with a business degree.

He worked in marketing and advertising and was building a career as an expert in analysing search engine optimisation. He had recently returned from a trip to Thailand.

Police said his death was not being treated as suspicious.

An inquest was opened and adjourned at Walthamstow Coroner's Court on January 2.

Jailed for four years: Lee Akhurst

Burglar jailed after breaking into home of sick pensioner

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN who broke into a pensioner's home while the victim was in hospital has been jailed for four years.

Lee Akhurst was sentenced at Wood Green Crown Court on Wednesday last week after pleading guilty to burglary at an earlier hearing.

Akhurst, 39, of Wilbury Way, Edmonton, broke into the home of an 85-year-old man who was in hospital for treatment following a fall between November 13 and 20 last year.

Police were called after a neighbour noticed that a porch door had been smashed open.

Akhurst was linked to the crime after blood on a brick used to smash the glass door matched his DNA.

He was arrested at his home on December 9.

Detective Sergeant Alan Dawson, from Enfield's crime unit, said: "This is a great court result. The offence of burglary has a painful and long-lasting effect on its victims.

"Local residents can be assured that Enfield Police will put fear into burglary offenders operating in the area, arrest them and bring them before the courts."

Concert raises £1,500 for brain tumour charity

A FUNDRAISING concert in memory of an Enfield librarian has raised £1,500 for brain tumour research.

The musical evening was organised by Allison Lochhead, whose mother, Sylvia Horder, of Park Avenue, Bush Hill Park, died in 2002, aged 63, 14 months after she had been diagnosed with a brain tumour.

She was a familiar face at the library in Cecil Road, Enfield Town, where a bench commemorates her, and was a keen member of scrabble leagues.

Mrs Lochhead is a member of musical theatre group Performance, which staged the event at Bush Hill Park Bowls Club, in Abbey Road, where her father Mike is a member.

A friend, Mel Field, also performed in the concert. Her daughter Molly was just eight when she died months after being diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumour.

Mrs Lochhead said: "I met Mel when we used to do amateur dramatics. My mum lived for 14 months after being diagnosed with a grade IV glioma brain tumour and eight years later Molly was diagnosed.

"It is unbearable to think that one in 50 people who dies under the age of 60 dies from a brain tumour, yet this area receives just one per cent of the national spend on cancer research."

The two women decided to raise funds for Brain Tumour Research, an initiative launched by a group of 21 UK brain tumour charities in 2009, and recruited Mrs Lochhead's nine-year-old son Henry, and Mrs Field's daughter Isabella, also nine, to join in.

The youngsters performed a comedy routine and Henry sang a children's festive song The Gift to entertain the 125-strong audience.

Tories blast council spending on IT

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

OPPOSITION politicians have attacked the council's £4.7 million expenditure over four years on information technology equipment, describing it as an act of "profligacy".

The Conservative group hit out at the costs of IT, including £2.7m in 2013/14.

Conservative finance spokesman Ertan Hurer said: "Walking round the council at times it feels like there are more iPads than at an Apple store and more accessories than in PC World."

He said that he had to take decisions on purchasing IT in his own business.

"There is no way I would ever sign off on some of the spend and equipment at the Civic Centre," he said. "It is all nice to have kit, but a lot of it is not necessary for people to do their work."

The Conservative group said that at the same time the council had cut £26,000 to close park gates at night and £72,000 on road gritting.

Mr Hurer attacked the spending decisions. "This is yet another example of the Labour council making poor choices with taxpayers' money, choosing to waste millions of pounds on gadgets over locking gates, gritting our roads and keeping people in jobs," he said.

However, Enfield Council said it was committed to delivering excellent services in the face of funding cuts and extra demand.

A spokesman said: "This includes investment in new IT when existing technology comes to the end of its shelf life – meaning that we can meet the changing needs of our customers, work in a more flexible way to save money for our residents and tighten data security.

"This short-term investment in the IT which underpins the delivery of all council services is vital if we are to continue to provide excellent and accessible services for our residents."

He added that the expenditure should make it more agile and help the council to make £80m savings by 2018/19.

Achilleas Georgiou, the deputy leader of the council, said: "The central issue is that we need to spend on IT so that we can become more effectively operationally in the long term."

He said that if Conservative councillors did not like the iPads, "they can give them back", adding that it was now "quite the norm" for people to use iPads in business.

"Tax relief on new products helped our business take off"

Rob Law, CEO of Trunki

Businesses investing in new products and services can claim tax relief on their investment over 5 years. To discover how Trunki benefited from Government support and how you can too, visit greatbusiness.gov.uk/tax-relief

Financial support for small businesses - where to start?

As a small business owner, what keeps you awake at night? For many, balancing the books is top of the list. Healthy finances are crucial to allow you to both invest in your business whilst protecting it from what the future may bring. Fortunately, there is a range of government support available to help your business to be secure and most importantly, grow.

One example of a small business which has received government financial support is Trunki. Their innovatively designed products (including their famous children's suitcase) have enabled them to access a range of government products and services, helping them to take huge leaps as a business.

"Trunki has received government support in a number of ways," explains Rob Law, founder of Trunki. "Firstly, we worked hard to re-shore our manufacturing to our plastics moulding factory in Plymouth, allowing us to benefit from The Patent Box scheme."

The Patent Box enables companies to apply a lower rate of corporation tax to profits earned from patented inventions. It is being phased in over a four-year period and once the full benefit of the Patent Box is in effect (from April 2017) it will result in a ten per cent rate of corporation tax being applied to such returns.

"We have always applied for patents for all of our products to build up our IP portfolio, it's one of the most valuable assets we have" said Law. "This scheme is brilliant, allowing us to re-invest more of our earnings back into the business. It motivated us to stay in the UK and not to offshore. It rewards inventive companies too, which can only be a good thing."

"Secondly, we received government support through R&D tax credits for the development of our BoostAPak children's car seat and for the re-engineered version of our Trunki suitcases, which is now easier to manufacture in the UK and to recycle."

There are many types of financial support available to businesses with ambitions to grow. As well as the increasing variety of finance sources now available (such as crowdfunding, bank loans and peer-to-peer lending) there are many government schemes and incentives (on top of those Trunki accessed) devised to help small businesses secure the funding they need to succeed.

For example, your business may be eligible for financial support packages such as the Enterprise Investment Scheme, SMART grants or Social Investment Tax Relief. Or perhaps your business needs the support to secure initial funding to help turn your idea into a reality.

Tesco urged to clarify position on new store

Councillor's concern after retailer closes its headquarters

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUNCILLOR looking into the number of vacant properties has urged supermarket giant Tesco to go ahead with its plans to open a mini-supermarket in Enfield in the wake of its decision to close its Cheshunt headquarters.

Joanne Laban, who represents Town ward, called for clarity about plans to open a Tesco Metro as part of a redevelopment of flats and two shop units at the site of a bookmaker's and take-away in Baker Street.

The application was approved by Enfield Council last month.

Ms Laban said: "I would be concerned if they pulled out of that site", adding that anything was preferable to an empty shop.

She said she was calling for an update into plans for the site.

She is chairing a review into vacant shops in Enfield and will be holding a public meeting next month to discuss ways to fill them.

The beleaguered supermarket company announced the closure of the Cheshunt site next year, along with its pension scheme and 43 unprofitable stores, as part of a recovery package. It will also put plans to open 49 big stores on hold.

Although the company would not confirm how many people work at the administrative HQ in Delamare Road, it is thought that about 3,000 people are employed there.

Shutting: Tesco's headquarters in Cheshunt

Tesco built its offices in Cheshunt in 1973. It will now move its administration to its other headquarters in Welwyn Garden City.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for economic development Alan Sitkin said: "We are working directly with the Department for Work and Pensions officer responsible for managing the national Tesco situation to see what can be done with regards Enfield residents who may be at risk of losing their jobs as a result of Tesco head office in Cheshunt closing.

"We are absolutely committed to helping all residents who are out of work for some time or have other issues, such as depression or 'dependencies', to find work or undergo training to improve their prospects of employment."

Witness appeal after two burglaries in same road

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS have been urged to be vigilant in the wake of two burglaries in the same road just before Christmas.

Police are appealing for information and witnesses after they were called to a house in Derwent Road, Palmers Green, on December 3 at 12.30pm to reports of a burglary.

Officers discovered that residents of the property had disturbed two men as they were trying to break into their house.

While police were investigating, they were alerted to another burglary in the same road – and this time a number of items were stolen.

On interviewing witnesses, police discovered that before they had arrived neighbours had seen two men run off in the direction of Lakeside Road, which runs parallel to Derwent Road.

The suspects are both described as white men in their 20s and are about 5ft 9ins tall.

One of the suspects had brown, collar-length hair and was wearing a blue and grey jacket with blue jeans. He was heard to speak with a London accent. The other suspect had short brown hair and was wearing a dark, possibly black, hooded top.

Police would like to speak to anyone who witnessed anything unusual in the area around Derwent Road and Lakeside Road between noon and 12.30pm on Wednesday, December 3.

Anyone with information can call Enfield Police on 101, or contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111, quoting reference 5226509/14.

Man, 69, attacked and robbed

POLICE are appealing for help in tracing two burglars who broke into a pensioner's home in Palmers Green and attacked him just before Christmas.

A 69-year-old man disturbed the burglars after returning home at 7.30pm on Tuesday, December 2.

The man chased them out of the house in The Larches and shouted at one of them as the suspect tried to start his car. He sprayed the victim in the face with an unknown substance.

Both burglars then ran back inside the house before making off with a box of jewellery. They escaped in the direction of Hedge Lane. The pensioner was treated by his doctor and has made a full recovery.

One suspect is described as white, aged about 20, 5ft 9ins tall and of slim build, with light brown hair. His head was covered and he had a dark coloured scarf pulled up to his nose. The other suspect is also white, aged about 20 and of a similar height and build. He also had short light brown hair.

Anyone with information can call police on 101, quoting reference number 5226462/14 – or to remain anonymous Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

KEEP SAFE FROM FIRE – AT EVERY LEVEL

A few too many celebratory nights out and overindulgence during the festive season mean many of us are spending the cold, dark winter evenings at home in the new year. But those domestic treats to cheer us – the heater turned up to 'max', candles giving a soft glow and perhaps some chips cooking in the kitchen – can bring greater risks of fire in the home.

That's why the Fire Kills campaign together with fire and rescue services around the country is asking you and your household to take extra care and is recommending a few simple steps to keep everyone safe. These simple steps save lives.

More than nine out of ten homes now have at least one smoke alarm installed. But fire can break out anywhere in the home. To make sure that any smoke does set off your smoke alarms, install at least one on every level of your home and especially close to where you sleep.

If you test them at least monthly you can be confident that they are all working properly – both the power supply and the detection mechanism. Then you can be sure that you and your household will have the earliest possible warning of danger should a fire break out.

Last year 213 people died in fires in their home. The most common reason why smoke alarms didn't go off was because smoke did not reach the detector. Another reason was that the batteries were flat or missing. Working smoke alarms on every level really can save lives.

Once you know fire has started in your home, get out, stay out and call '999'. But how are you going to get out? That is the next simple step we are urging you to think about now – your escape routes. The best one is your normal way in and out of your home. Then you need a good back-up plan in case the fire is blocking that route.

Make sure all your routes are always clear of blockages you can control, like boxes and toys, and everyone knows where door and window keys are kept. A household planning session and practice run can be a life-saver for everyone – especially those who might need extra help with some routes or are a little slower. Most people overestimate their ability to escape a fire – often not realising the deadly effect of smoke. Surveys suggest that around 70 per cent of older people fall into this group but, sadly, over half of the people who died in recent domestic fires in England were aged 65 and over.

Don't risk tragedy in a fire in your home, follow these three simple steps:

Install a smoke alarm on every level and near sleeping areas
Test them at least monthly to make sure they are all working Plan and practise your escape routes and keep them clear.

Don't watch all your cash go up in smoke

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

IF you haven't got money to burn and value your health, then quit smoking.

That's the message of a new campaign by Enfield Council aiming to get the smokers to realise how expensive the harmful habit is.

And with many residents already finding it tough following the expense of Christmas, it urges: "Make sure you don't go broke for a smoke."

The council says at £9 for a pack of 20 that works out at 45p per cigarette – and even 10-a-day costs £31.50, or £1,638 a year.

To help those who want to quit, a stall was set up outside ASDA in Edmonton Green on Friday offering free Stop Smoking advice and support, plus entertainment with a clown and silhouette artist.

Rohini Simbodyal, cabinet member for culture, sport, youth and public health, said "Smoking is very a harmful habit. It not only causes serious health problems including cancer but also is highly expensive.

"There are so many reasons to give it up, not just the health and social benefits of not breathing in smoke all the time but also the idea that by cutting down you could save well over £1,000 a year, or more, and spend it on something else.

Fuming: Anti-smoking campaigners outside ASDA in Edmonton Green

"Enfield Council's Stop Smoking service offers help and advice to quit, no matter how long you have been smoking, so why not give them a ring? After all the expense of Christmas, make sure you don't go broke for a smoke."

Dr Mo Abedi, the chairman of Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, said: "Smoking is the greatest preventable cause of death and disability in the borough.

Enfield GPs see the effects of smoking every day and I can only recommend that any smoker uses the free support available to help them stop."

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

'Her spirit stayed strong to the end - she was a fighter'

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

Enfield's oldest resident dies aged 109

IT'S the end of an era after the death of the borough's oldest resident.

Ada Gould, who was just 35 days away from her 110th birthday when she passed away peacefully on Saturday in Elizabeth Lodge nursing home, in Pennington Drive, Winchmore Hill.

"Her passing has left a big hole in my life," her granddaughter Sally Ricketts, 54, of Parsonage Gardens, Enfield told the Advertiser. "She was an amazing woman, so determined, and she was so active - living on her own in her house in Genotin Terrace right up until she was in her mid-90s."

One of eight children, Mrs Gould was born in Islington on Valentine's Day in 1904 before working in service and moving to Winchester Road, in Edmonton, in her teens.

She met and married her husband Albert Edward Gould in April, 1926, and the couple lived in Chapel Street, Enfield, and then later in Genotin Terrace while he worked in Kitchener's fruit and veg shop in Chase Side and Ada worked on the pharmacy counter in Boots.

The couple had three children and Sally told the Advertiser that one of the biggest regrets of her grandmother's life was that she outlived both her sons and her daughter.

But her two great-grandsons, Sam and Luke, both in their 20s, were a source of immense pride to the 109-year-old.

"Sam is a great musician and Luke is an actor, and she was just so proud of both of them," said Sally. "They brought her so much joy in life."

Sally revealed that her grandmother's death came as a shock to the family as she had not been sick or ailing.

"It was very peaceful at the end," said Sally. "Her spirit remained strong right up until the end - she really was a fighter."

Sally also revealed that Ada loved her cards from the Queen, which she had received for every birthday since she turned 105.

"That's my Queen' she would always say looking at those cards," added Sally. "She loved them."

Funeral arrangements are yet to be announced.

'Amazing': Ada Gould, who has died five weeks before 110th birthday

Free 'Get to Know Computers' Morning at Hertford Regional College (HRC)
Saturday 17th January, 9:15-12:15,
Broxbourne Campus, Turnford

Do you like the idea of using a computer but don't know where to start? Or do you know someone who shies away from all things technical and you want to show them the benefits of computer use?

The advantages of computers are numerous; they are used in many jobs these days and can really help with shopping or keeping in touch with loved ones. You may have children or grandchildren who are whizz kids on the computer, laptop and iPad and you are too embarrassed to ask what they are doing.

If you have always been a bit nervous when it comes to using computers and have never taken the step to using one or are not even sure which course you should try; the New Year might just be the time to give it a go.

This morning at HRC aims to give you an overview of how to get started. We will help with the basics for things you want to know such as computer files, using the internet or starting to use programs such as Word or Excel. It's an opportunity to ask questions and meet like-minded people in a friendly environment.

Places are limited and are on a first come first served basis so to make the most of this offer call HRC on 01992 411 411 or email: info@hrc.ac.uk.

Hard-hitting tale pulls no punches

WHIPLASH (15, 106 mins) Drama/Romance. Miles Teller, JK Simmons, Nate Lang, Melissa Benoist, Austin Stowell, Paul Reiser. Director: Damien Chazelle.
Released: January 16 (UK & Ireland)

THE fresh paint of 2015 has barely dried and already we have a strong contender for the film of the year.

Inspired by writer-director Damien Chazelle's experiences in a fiercely competitive high school jazz band, Whiplash is an electrifying tale of a 19-year-old drummer's bruising battle of wits with his monstrous college tutor.

As the title intimates, pain is acute in a lean script that pulls no punches in its depiction of the pursuit of musical excellence, which propels Andrew Neiman, the self-destructive student, to the brink of a mental and physical breakdown.

Drumming sequences are edited at a frenetic pace, spattered with the real sweat of lead actor Miles Teller, who performs all of the energy-sapping solos as if his life depended on it.

It's a bravura performance complemented by JK Simmons' jaw-dropping portrayal of the foul-mouthed, bullying conductor Terence Fletcher, who verbally abuses students who fall short of his impossible demands for metronomic and percussive perfection. Staring at his terrified charges, Simmons' musician-turned-mentor preys upon teenage fears and insecurities, kindling intense rivalry between band members for his own sadistic pleasure.

Early in the film, he picks on one nervous trombonist's weight and snarls: "I will not let you cost us a competition because your mind's on a Happy Meal and not on pitch."

He's just getting warmed up. A fledgling romance with Nicole (Melissa Benoist), who works at Andrew's local cinema, is sacrificed in a cold, cruel fashion that would have Fletcher smacking his lips with glee.

The game of one-upmanship between teacher and pupil spirals out of control as Andrew struggles to meet the lofty expectations of his maniacal mentor and earn the right to play at a concert in the rarefied surroundings of Carnegie Hall.

Whiplash delivers one emotional wallop after another as Andrew practises until his hands bleed and Simmons belittles those Herculean efforts by growling: "Is that the fastest you can go? It is no wonder Mommy ran out on you!"

We root for the beleaguered teenager with every display of frenzied stick-work, urging Andrew to wipe the smug grin off Fletcher's face.

Our investment in the characters is immense and Chazelle rewards us with an astounding denouement that saps every ounce of energy from our bodies. We're delirious, euphoric and physically spent.

Demanding: JK Simmons as music tutor Terence Fletcher

Clive Cashes in on an uncanny resemblance

Clive John as the legendary Johnny Cash

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THERE can be few better endorsements for a Johnny Cash tribute act than to hear the country and western legend's daughter, Roseanne, remark at the uncanny resemblance.

And die-hard Cash fans, as well as everyone else, get the chance to see how spot-on Clive John's impersonation is of the iconic singer-songwriter when the Fabulous Johnny Cash Roadshow comes to Edmonton's Millfield Theatre.

Cash, who died in 2003, is widely regarded as one of most influential American musicians of the 20th century – and the show on Thursday, January 22, spans his 50-year career.

All the hits are there, from I Walk the Line, to Ring of Fire, to a Boy Named Sue, and all are performed by Clive and his backing band.

They're accompanied by a video backdrop of evocative images and video clips chronicling Cash's life.

"It's a celebration of the man and his music, capturing the essence of what it was like to be at a Johnny Cash concert," said Clive, a classically trained professional musician and songwriter.

The 40-year-old believes it was his destiny to portray The Man in Black after he was given a double CD of Johnny Cash hits almost 10 years ago by his best friend, who was dying of a brain tumour. "I loved the songs and taught myself to play them, then got a band together and the rest is history," he added.

Cash's daughter remarked on Clive's uncanny resemblance to her father after she was shown a photo of him by Cash's granddaughter Caitlin, after she turned up at one of his concerts in Altrincham, in Greater Manchester.

"This woman with a deep south accent appeared and asked to see me," he recalls. "I thought it was a wind-up, but she was visiting Altrincham because that's where her boyfriend lived."

She said, 'You sound just like my grandpa'. We've kept in touch and we email each other regularly."

The gentleman's express

By Matt Kimberley

AUDI has pressed the refresh button on the full A6 range, so the muscle-bound S6 saloon and Avant estate get the same (tiny) makeover.

The grille now has twin bars running across it, instead of single, thicker ones, and the headlights, bumper and air inlets have been reshaped slightly.

Don some X-ray specs and you'll see adaptive air suspension set to 20mm lower than the standard A6, while the brake calipers are now matt black, the rear diffuser has an aluminium-look blade and the full-LED headlights are ever-so-slightly slimmer.

The wider changes to the base car have made it a better-looking platform for the S and, in 2015, the RS development teams to deal with. Side skirts that jut out more prominently, 19-inch twin-spoke alloy wheels and those flashy headlights give it the kind of window shopping appeal that half of Amsterdam could scarcely dream of.

But the S6's civility is stuffed deep down inside its bag of tricks and there's no getting rid of it. At first glance this could just be an S-line spec A6 and its relative understatement is one of the qualities that help it sell so well.

In finest fast Audi tradition you can choose an estate model as well as the saloon. The wagon is a bit heavier, not that you'll notice unless you take it on a track day, but it's prettier than and as roomy as an empty shed.

The question marks have to come further forward, in the passenger zone. With such shapely seats and high-quality leathers cocooning you like a Persian prince, the S6 is better for luxuriating than it is for folding the seats down and throwing a load of planks into. It's just too well-appointed for that.

Turbocharging a V8 gets you lots of things – power and speed being two. The S6 is as rapid as the people who take used plates away at all-you-can-eat buffets and it doesn't feel particularly like a turbocharged engine. It pulls harder and harder with a barrel-chested bellow as the revs rise, a lot like the engines of S-car generations past.

Grip and traction are beyond what you'd ever be able to exploit on the road. The way it drags itself so violently but so steadily out of tight corners is uncanny. G-force has never been so unthreatening.

Most roads simply aren't big enough for the S6 to stretch its legs, but at normal speeds it's as stable as Ayers Rock.

Sure, it's firm over bumps on its huge (optional) 21-inch wheels, but if history has taught us anything it's that Audi buyers don't tend to mind sacrificing ride quality for aesthetics.

At £56,000, the saloon is not a cheap car. And at that price Audi kindly leaves a lot of the technology and luxury that you're likely to want on the options list, so quickly totting up beyond £60,000 is a given. It's big, hugely capable and prestigious, but smaller premium-brand cars that will do the job just as well could offer a much better value alternative.

The S6 is a gentleman's express – a large, powerful and long-legged car with the ability to cross continents at speed without breaking a sweat. It's not particularly affordable or cheap to run, but it is very lovely. If money is no problem and the new looks light your fire more than ever, this is a solid choice that won't leave you disappointed.

KANE HOPING FOR ENGLAND CALL-UP

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HARRY KANE admits that he is dreaming of receiving a call-up to the senior England squad on the back of his fine form for Tottenham Hotspur.

The young striker has burst on the scene with a series of excellent performances this season and scored his 17th goal of the campaign in Spurs' 2-1 Premier League defeat at Crystal Palace on Saturday.

Kane's displays have led to him being hotly tipped to get a first senior England call-up when Roy Hodgson announces his next squad in March, but the 21-year-old knows that he needs to continue performing well for his club side if he is to have any chance of achieving this.

"It's something I've dreamt about since I was a kid but there are still two months until the next England squad is announced," he said. "There is a lot of football to be played between now and then, so I know that I've got to keep my form up if I want to have a chance at that."

"I've got to keep scoring goals because the boss has said he'll pick players on form and who is doing well. I've got to continue to do well if that's where I want to get to."

"To have the England senior manager praising you is something that can only help me. Hopefully I can continue what I've been doing and get a call-up."

"I know I'm playing well and I have a shout, but I know I've got to continue playing well to have any chance because the England senior squad is the top of the top and what every English footballer dreams of. I've got to keep focused, keep my feet on the ground and continue doing what I'm doing for Tottenham."

Kane has already made a big impact for England's under-21 side, scoring 13 times in 12 appearances and playing a key role in helping them qualify for the 2015 European under-21 Championships.

And the striker is relishing the prospect of competing for the under-21 team in this summer's event – even if he does break into the senior squad before then.

"Regardless of whether I get the England senior call-up or not, I'm very much looking forward to the under-21 tournament," Kane added. "It's important to have a good side going to that tournament because it's great for development and it'd be great for the country if we can win it."

"I feel that we've got a great team in the under-21s and we've had great success in the qualifying campaign."

"There is no reason why we can't win it and that's exactly what we're looking to do in the summer. It's something that I'm really looking forward to."

"It would be an honour if I'm picked to play in a European tournament at under-21 level. Some great players have done it in the past. Hopefully we can do well and maybe even win it."

Dreaming of England: Harry Kane hopes that his fine displays will lead to him getting an international call-up

Chadli expecting Spurs to bounce back

TOTTENHAM HOTSPUR have set their sights on going on another lengthy unbeaten run as they look to bounce back from Saturday's defeat at the hands of Crystal Palace.

Spurs had not been beaten in six Premier League matches – eight games in all competitions – prior to their 2-1 reversal at Selhurst Park, which saw them slip below bitter rivals Arsenal into sixth place in the table.

Following a blank first half the in-form Harry Kane fired Tottenham into the lead four minutes after the interval, but Dwight Gayle equalised from the spot before Jason Puncheon scored the winner for the hosts with nine minutes remaining.

The side now face a hectic schedule of league and cup action in the coming weeks, starting with tonight's FA Cup third round replay at home to Burnley, and Belgian international Nacer Chadli believes that they can quickly put the defeat behind them.

"After the first goal we had to push for the second," he said. "Unfortunately we didn't and Palace came back into the game with a penalty."

"I thought we were in control at 1-0 but after the penalty we were not in the game any more and that's a big disappointment for everyone."

"Like we did before after a loss we have to make things clear and make a fresh start – and that's what we are going to do."

And head coach Mauricio Pochettino felt that the penalty proved to be the real turning point in a match which he believed that Tottenham had been in control of up until that moment.

He said: "The game wasn't good, it was under control but the penalty was the key moment and changed the momentum of the game."

"We were in control but we made a mistake. Maybe it wasn't a penalty, but after that it was difficult to handle the game. In the end perhaps we didn't deserve to lose, but that's football."

"It was difficult after conceding the goal, I think they showed more energy than us in the last 15-20 minutes, I am disappointed because after we conceded Palace were better."

"I'm disappointed and we need to analyse, we need to improve and we need to avoid some of the mistakes that we made against Palace."

Another victory for in-form Borough

THE start of the new year did little to alter Haringey Borough's fortunes as they secured a 2-1 victory at Clapton in the Essex Senior League on Saturday.

Borough are believed to have had the best league record of any team in non-league football in the United Kingdom during the calendar year of 2014 – winning 38, drawing one and losing just two of their 41 league games.

And, playing in the league for the first time in 2015, Borough overcome a strong challenge from Clapton to claim yet another victory.

Clapton made the better start to the match, but it was the visitors who took the lead against the run of play in the 22nd minute through a Walid Matata penalty.

It looked as if Borough were heading for a comfortable victory when they doubled their advantage five minutes later – with Cornel Cornea prodding home the rebound after Anthony McDonald's shot had come back off the post.

But, to their credit, the hosts fought back strongly and reduced their deficit through a Fahad Nyanja penalty five minutes before the interval.

The second half saw Clapton lay siege to the visitors' goal, but Borough held firm under sustained pressure – with keeper Ashley Harris making a stunning late save from a free-kick to ensure that they picked up all three points.

Meanwhile, Borough needed a penalty shoot-out to overcome Hullbridge Sports and book their place in the quarter-finals of the Gordon Brasted Memorial Trophy on Tuesday last week.

The clash ended in a 2-2 draw, with McDonald and Daniel Aristidou scoring for a Borough side who were without nine first-team regulars.

Neither side was able to find the net during extra time, but it was Borough who held their nerve better in the penalty shoot-out – with Joshua Willer scoring the decisive spot kick as they triumphed 4-3.

Without a match this weekend, Haringey Borough's next game is at home to Stansted on Tuesday (7.45pm).
